

The WEEK

By A. M. Brayton

DELIBERATIONS regarding Irish people have not reached definite conclusions, the presentation of the English concessions having been sent back to Ireland with the inference that they would be held unsatisfactory, but possible of amendment acceptable to all parties. The Irish think the offer should be more definite and certain. They particularly object to provisions for the entry of British troops at Irish ports, which the English government desires for defensive purposes, and they want the right of neutrality in case England engages in war.

The Irish port matter is one of high importance to the British, but it seems certain that in case of invasion Ireland would consent to such defensive measures were they not made mandatory. The objection is probably the technical point that state sovereignty which does not possess the legal right to bar the soldiers of other nations is incomplete, and it seems certain that Great Britain can afford to recognize this point upon the ground that her soldiers will always be welcomed for the defense of the British Isles.

The matter of neutrality would be of equal importance to Great Britain could one conceive of the Irish people lacking sympathy with the liberties and general welfare of English-speaking peoples. Such tardiness as was shown in parts of Ireland when volunteers were rushing to the flag in the early years of the war was unquestionably due to feeling created by British oppression. Canada and Australia went heart and soul into the war side by side with England. Ireland would not do less and once established as a free nation it would doubtless gladly enter into a defensive, and possibly into an offensive, treaty with England. What it wants is liberty, nationality, the sovereignty of its own domain. If that be granted, Ireland will doubtless become more valuable to England as an ally than it ever has been as a dominion. Ireland will be in all English fights which represent the cause of humanity. Indeed, who ever heard of an Irishman staying out of a good fight?

Texas is swept by terrorism in which masked bands drag men from their homes, beat them, or tar and feather them. Sixty-eight cases are reported, with two deaths. The Ku Klux Klan officials deny complicity. The attorney general says he has no power to act, and local authorities are ineffective. The riders have posted notices advising "certain men" to "spend more time with their wives." This crime may spread. Better make a put of the "sweet woman," as Barney Google might have advised.

The Luther League has been holding a convention in Madison. The attendance was big, several hundred. It was good to see so many of the younger type in attendance. Our young people are tending to run away from religion. Anyone can see the dangers of this period of post-war laxity. We've got to get back to the church to be safe. Religion is not a last resort for the aged who near a final accounting. Christianity is a philosophy of life, that brightens and sweetens it. It is the way to happiness for the young and strong and able, as well as a refuge for those whose careers are far spent.

Governor Blaine called the British government to keep the pledge of self-determination in its dealings with the Irish. Alone, this cablegram would amount to little. But gathering evidence of world sentiment for Irish independence will count, because England lives on the trade good will of the world. Irish freedom is so near that every ounce of influence helps bring the matter into balance.

Mrs. Bergdoll's charges of bribery to effect the liberty of her slacker son would not of themselves be taken seriously, for she does not come into court with clean hands. But the very circumstance of his escape on the strength of a cock and bull story points inexorably at foul play. The matter should be sifted to the bottom. America owes it to its self respect, and to every soldier who donned the uniform to bring to justice those who permitted this assault upon justice and decency.

Uncle Sam holds out bait to get Japan into the peace conference—or will it be the peace conference—or will it be the peace conference?—by providing that all nations participating shall have a voice in deciding what points shall be discussed. Japan doesn't want to talk about Yap and Sharang. If the Japs conclude they can control this matter, they will accept more quickly. But it is improbable that they will stay out in the end. "East is East, and West is West," but the twin shall meet in peace conference because thus far West is stronger than East.

ARKANSAS BANDITS HUNTED MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Posses spread a dragnet over several Arkansas counties Saturday in a search for the six bandits who Friday night held up Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 205, Memphis to St. Louis, near Vandale, Ark., robbed the mail and express car and escaped in an automobile. Amount of the loot is not known.

10-CENT WAGE CUT ACCEPTED BY CARPENTERS

La Crosse Union and Master Builders Settle Their Differences Over Wages of Men

NEW SCALE OF EIGHTY CENTS AN HOUR IS EFFECTIVE ON MONDAY

Unionists Want to Help in Getting Back to Normal, Says President Knox

THE Carpenters' union and the carpenter contractors of La Crosse have come to a definite agreement on wages. Beginning Monday, carpenters will be paid 80 cents an hour. The 1920-21 contracts between the carpenters and master builders which expired May 1, last, called for a scale of 90 cents an hour. For several weeks after the expiration of the agreements, carpenters continued under the old scale of pay. On June 1, the contractors announced a wage reduction of 10 cents, or 80 cents an hour. The union refused to accept this reduction.

The next move was a notice from the carpenters' union that the men had agreed to accept a five-cent reduction, or 85 cents an hour. Last week a committee of the union and carpenter contractors met and finally agreed on the 80-cent scale, with the 1920 union conditions prevailing. The 80-cent scale will be effective until May 1, 1922.

"Owing to the depression in building and the desire of the people that the necessity of life decrease in price, the carpenters have agreed to a reduction of 10 cents an hour in wages," said J. N. Knox, president of the carpenters' union, Saturday night. "It is the hope of the union that business will pick up. It is willing to do its share toward siding business get back to a normal basis."

UNITED AMERICAN LINE WILL OPERATE SHIPS SEIZED BY U. S.

NEW YORK.—The United American line temporarily will operate the five passenger liners seized Friday night from the United States Mail Steamship company by the shipping board. This announcement was made late Saturday by J. B. Small, an operating director of the board. The United American line is a subsidiary of the American Ship and Commerce corporation, of which W. A. Harriman is president, after its organization a year ago, it was announced that it had entered into a contract with the Hamburg-American line to reopen former trade routes of the German company. The United States Mail Steamship company has a similar contract with the North German Lloyd, which so far as is known never has been approved by the shipping board. Its details have not been made public.

I. W. W.'S ADVOCATE BURNING OF CROPS TO GET BIGGER WAGES

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—William Bousinger and George Korsi, who, it is alleged by witnesses, were making inflammatory speeches on Senary Island here last Friday, were held on Saturday under $2,000 bond each for a preliminary hearing next Tuesday in municipal court on a charge of criminal syndicalism preferred by State Attorney Waggoner. Bousinger, it is said, advocated the overthrow of government and the destruction of crops on farms as the only means of obtaining high wages. Both men carried membership cards of the Industrial Workers of the World.

TRANSFER MURRAY WILL CASE. EIGHTH. Mont.—Hearing on the petition of Public Administrator George B. Dugan for probate of the will of the late James A. Murray, was transferred Saturday to another department of district court. No date has been fixed for the hearing.

HOWDY, folks! This will be the greeting heard in Sparta, Rockland, Bangor and West Salem on August 3, when the first "Get-Acquainted" tour of the Chamber of Commerce throughout this section of the state is held. The tour is being arranged by the Merchants' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. It is being conducted, however, for the benefit of all members of the Chamber and citizens in general and the main purpose is to establish good feeling, acquaintances and friendships among merchants, business men and farmers in the territory tributary to the La Crosse markets. The Citizens' band will accompany the tourists. Concerts will be given at each town visited. The places to be visited in the order in which stops will be made are Sparta, Rockland, Bangor and West Salem. The Merchants' Bureau asks everyone having an automobile to be on hand Wednesday, August 3, for the tour. Every member of the Chamber is asked to attend and assist in dispensing good cheer throughout the county that day.

WOMAN NAMED ON MINNESOTA STATE BOARD OF CONTROL

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Appointment of Mrs. Blane La Du of Minneapolis to the state board of control, was announced Saturday night by Governor Freus. The position pays $4,500 a year. Mrs. La Du is an attorney, for many years has been active in club circles and is a member from the fifth congressional district of the republican state central committee. She is a graduate of the college of law at the University of Minnesota.

FREAR OPPOSITION BEATS FORDNEY DYE EMBARGO IN TARIFF

Four of Wisconsin Delegation Bolt Party on Measure; Amendment is Passed

REVENUE STAMP OFFICE TO STAY AT MADISON, DECISION

Lenroot and Nelson Back from Inspection of Waterways Project

By BETTY PRUETT FARRINGTON WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Wisconsin delegation furnished the bulk of the majority in opposition to the Fordney tariff bill which was adopted by a vote of 239 to 127. Of the seven Republicans who bolted their party on the measure, four were from Wisconsin. They were John M. Nelson of Madison, Edward Voigt of Sheboygan, Joseph D. Beck of Viroqua, and Florian Lampert of Oshkosh. The action of the House in adopting the amendment striking out the dye-embargo provisions of the bill was a distinct victory for James A. Frear of Hudson. It was against this feature of the bill that Mr. Frear aimed his vigorous minority report.

Tariff League Backs Frear. On the first vote on the dye-embargo, the House upheld this provision. But the final roll call showed a majority against it. The fight, waged by Mr. Frear, was actively supported by the American Protective Tariff League. It was also backed by the textile manufacturers of the East.

The textile manufacturers have contended that if a high protective tariff or an embargo is placed on imported dyes, then, in fairness to them, similar measures should be taken to protect them against the importation of all commodities containing the same dyes. The gist of Mr. Frear's opposition, however, is that the dye embargo would give the American dye interests a monopoly in the American market.

The roll call on the Wisconsin delegation on the elimination of the dye embargo provision in the Fordney bill was as follows: For the embargo: Classon; against the embargo: Beck, Browne, Cooper, Frear, Kleczka, Lampert, A. P. Nelson, J. M. Nelson, Stafford, Voigt.

Split on Cotton Duty. The delegation split on the question of placing a duty on cotton which was defeated by the House. The roll call follows: For duty: Classon, Frear, A. P. Nelson, Voigt, Kleczka, Lampert, J. M. Nelson, Stafford; against duty: Beck, Browne, Cooper.

The House also defeated the proposed duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on hides by a vote of 239 to 174. On an earlier vote, the duty on hides was agreed to, but when the Middle Western and Western Republicans from agricultural districts refused to support a competing duty on leather goods including shoes, the Eastern group voted with the Democrats for free hides. The roll call on the delegation on this amendment follows: For duty: Beck, Browne, Classon, Cooper, Frear, Lampert, A. P. Nelson, J. M. Nelson, Voigt; against duty: Kleczka, Stafford. The entire delegation was present during the tariff debate and all voted on the final roll call. The bill now goes to the Senate where it (Continued on page six)

SMALL CHARGES HE IS VICTIM OF HUGE PLOT

Illinois Governor, in First Speech Since Indictment, Says "Treasury Looters" Prosecuting Him

DEFIANCE OF MONEY POWERS MEANS DEFACTION, IS CHARGE

His Audience Made Up of Followers of Mayor William Hale Thompson

CHICAGO, Ill.—Governor Len Small in his first public speech since his indictment on charges of embezzling funds, told thousands of his party followers Saturday that he was the victim "of a gigantic political plot."

Declaring that he was being prosecuted by "vested interests," "treasury looters," and "character defamers," Governor Small said that "when they found they could neither blind me or frighten me this gang banded together their tools to disgrace and destroy me by having me indicted by the grand jury of Sagamon county—a county ruled by the most vicious ring in Illinois."

Against "Plundering of State" Reviewing his acts in office, the governor said he stood against the plundering of the state treasury by the "money powers" and that one who had defied these interests could expect nothing more than to be the victim of their schemes. His audience was made up of the following of Mr. William Hale Thompson, who followed Governor Small on the speaker's platform.

"When Lowden ran for governor," said Mayor Thompson, "we took him at his word and elected him. He had not been governor two weeks when he sold out. The commission gave you higher street car rates, higher water rates, higher rates of every kind."

"Then, after the people elected Len Small as their governor, the same interests went to him and tried to buy him out. And when they found they couldn't buy him, they started in to crush him."

"This man whom you elected was prosecuted, but with your help the fight will go on. The fight you made a year ago made you an honest governor. He will stick by you."

ROTHSTEIN DECLARES BASEBALL FIXING CHARGE SLANDEROUS

NEW YORK.—Arnold Rothstein, whose name has been mentioned by William Burns in testimony at the baseball scandal trial in Chicago, issued a statement Saturday saying that the imputation that he participated in the fixing of the 1919 world's series was slanderous. He said he had appeared voluntarily before a grand jury in Chicago and had been exonerated of any wrong doing in connection with the series. He said he had rejected a proposition of Burns to enter a scheme to fix the series and had warned him not to speak to him again.

TOKIO PRESS SAY JAPAN WILL TALK ON PACIFIC PROBLEMS

At present, however, nothing new is known concerning Japan's probable attitude.

$50,000 STOCK SALES PAVILION TO MAKE LA CROSSE INTERSTATE FAIR NOTEWORTHY EXPOSITION

DRIVE STARTS HERE MONDAY RAISING FUND

Erection of Modern Stock Sales Pavilion Will Make This One of Greatest Fairs Country

PRIZE HERDS WILL COME TO BE DISPLAYED HERE

State Gives Guarantee for Upkeep of Building for a Long Term of Years

A CAMPAIGN to raise $50,000 for the construction of a stock sales pavilion on the Interstate fair grounds will be launched in La Crosse Monday morning.

Heralded as a movement which is bound to make the La Crosse Interstate fair one of the greatest fairs in the northwest and which will attract to this exposition the most valuable livestock produced in this section of the country, success of the campaign is assured.

The drive starts out under particularly favorable auspices, and on the soundest financial basis possible in a business undertaking. The Kiwanis club started the movement by subscribing $5,000 toward the building. The fair association subscribed a similar sum. Other liberal donations have been made to the fund during the past few days.

State's Guarantee In addition the fair association has a guarantee that the state will pay a minimum of $5,000 per year for a term of years for use of the stock sales pavilion, this amount assuring the upkeep of the structure with no expense to the fair association. Incidentally it also assures the permanency of the institution as a fixture of the fair.

Another feature is that the stock sales pavilion will be so constructed as to be utilized for any public purpose which the directors of the fair association may deem worth while. It will probably be the scene of many conventions and big entertainments in years to come.

Most important of all, declare officers of the association and others interested in La Crosse's annual exposition, is that the pavilion will give the fair impulse, and a standing among the greater fairs of the country.

Plan Fine Building Plans for the stock sales pavilion call for a structure which will represent the best work in beauty, comfort and convenience possible in a building of this type.

The pavilion will be erected on the west side of the fair grounds, between the secretary's office and exposition building and west of the playground. This location will make possible the installation of unloading facilities connecting with the railroad track adjoining the fair grounds on the west, permitting unloading and loading under cover.

The building will be oblong in shape, 120 feet long and 60 feet wide. The outer walls will be built of hollow tile, with the top course of masonry. The building will be fireproof and it will have a heating plant to provide warmth when needed.

The pavilion will have a seating capacity of 1,500 with seats arranged on all sides of the center in which the prize stock will be displayed and auctions held. It will be so constructed as to be used both for sales and show purposes. The floor will be of concrete with tarboard covering.

Every Convenience Facilities will be installed for the washing and cleaning of horses and cattle. On an upper floor will be sleeping quarters for herdsmen, shower baths, boys' and girls' club rooms and other facilities.

Wings will be built north and south of the main pavilion in which to house horses and cattle. These wings will connect directly with the pavilion, so that livestock can be led from building to building without going out of doors.

Sand flooring will be provided for the cattle in the wings, with cement flooring and wooden covering for the horses. The floors in the horse stalls will be constructed so they can be flushed once or twice a day. The interior arrangement of the building has been carefully planned

STOCK PAVILION AN INVESTMENT

An Editorial

THE outcome of the campaign for a stock pavilion at the Interstate fair grounds is a subject for solemn consideration by La Crosse business men. The special advantages of such a pavilion have been told in ample detail from time to time. In itself it means that La Crosse will become a rendezvous for the best-to-do type of stock farmers from all about the country, men who will come here by hundreds at frequent intervals, men who have money, and who spend money.

A Fundamental Step

But the crux of this matter is that it is the fundamental step in the reorganization of the Interstate fair upon a tremendously bigger basis. Time and time again it has been reiterated upon its highest authority that the location of this fair, almost equidistant from Minneapolis and Milwaukee, makes it potentially the biggest fair enterprise in a section covering hundreds of miles of territory. They are miles rich in production. Adjacent are the fields that have produced the country's sweepstakes corn, and the stock farms that have attracted buyers of pure bred cattle from coast to coast.

This fair can be made to stand out among the de luxe fairs of the United States, and to do so is the intention of the board of directors. What this means to La Crosse business—to its merchantmen—can be tallied in more thousands of dollars of profit in a single year than the entire cost of the present enterprise attains.

Bread-and-Butter Proposition

It isn't merely local pride, or a community advent: it is a bread-and-butter proposition for every man who has a dollar's worth of merchandise to sell in La Crosse. To this great dollars and cents—and common sense—proposition there has already come substantial support. The Kiwanis club has done a work in its behalf that is one of the wisest of La Crosse's material ventures.

The state stands back of it with a rental of $5,000, which is ready money in hand for a valuable service to the state. Several big private subscriptions have been assured, and others are in prospect. It remains for those whose business sense is keen for the future to do their just and proportionate part.

Do Not "Pass the Buck"

If we "pass the buck," La Crosse will lose the best paying business step it has undertaken in many years. We pay vast sums for things that pay in intellectual, moral and spiritual values. Today we are offered a bargain which means to us an additional income, not only for our private gain, but one out of the residue of which we can pay for other things calculated to make La Crosse the bigger and better city it should be, nor need we forget that our personal fortunes advance in the proportion in which La Crosse becomes a bigger and better city.

Investment, Not Charity

To every business man in La Crosse the Tribune and Leader-Press repeats: This is an investment, not a charity; it is pennies spent to dollars returned; it is an enterprise that means cash in the cash drawer. Let's get back of it, put it over with a whoop, and count our dividends on a basis of hundreds of per cent every year. It is good business, sound business, profitable business—OUR business.

To assure good acoustics, people sitting in the back rows of the pavilion will be able to hear the auctioneer and judges distinctly. Every possible convenience for spectators and for the proper housing and display of prize cattle and horses will be installed in this building.

PROSPECTS OF PEACE IN IRELAND STILL REMAIN OPTIMISTIC

De Valera and Aids Still Discussing British Terms; No New Developments as Yet

LONDON.—(By The Associated Press).—The feeling both in London and Dublin over the prospects of peace in Ireland remains optimistic. Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, on Saturday discussed the British terms with Arthur Griffith and others at the Mansion house in Dublin but no formal conference was held. Mr. De Valera informed his quarters that it was most unlikely any developments would take place in the immediate future.

There will probably be further consultations among the Sinn Fein ministers, after which a meeting of the Dail Eireann will be called. No date for this meeting has been fixed and it has been presumed that modifications of the terms will be sought before the republican parliament takes up the matter officially.

General Smuts, the South African premier, it is understood, will go to Ireland early next week for the purpose of conciliating, if possible, the opposing factions of the north and the south. He will place his services at the disposal of both Mr. De Valera and Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, and it is probable that he will have considerable latitude in the task before him.

The opinion in London is that the British terms are not likely to be accepted as they stand, but Mr. De Valera is almost certain to come to London again, with more of his colleagues and the Ulster premier was already declared that he would be available at any time he was really needed.

ISAAC LINCOLN, WEALTHY DAKOTA CATTLEMAN, DIES ABERDEEN, S. D.—Isaac Lincoln, state senator, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the state, died at noon Saturday following an illness of several months. He was born in Brunswick, Maine, in 1833. He came to this state in his early life and devoted much time to the development of pure bred cattle breeding.

HOLMEN COWS TESTING HIGH DURING SPRING

Splendid Report Shown for Month of May by the Official Tester

The May report of the Holmen Cow
Testing association follows:

Fifty per cent of herds report a 30-pound average for the month of May.
Members have all been grain feeding;
their cows during the winter with the result that the cows went on pasture in fine condition ready for the stimulating effects of the grass. Many of the cows, having produced heavily all winter, again reached high production marks. The high herds are all being grain fed with pasture in order that they maintain their best condition for fall freshening. Many of the pastures are poor this year as much clover has been winter killed. This condition calls for the renewing and changing of many pastures for the next season.

The grade and pure bred Guernsey herd of Ludwig T. Lee of Holmen was highest in butter fat production for the month; the production per average cow was milk 708.3 pounds, test 5.03, butter fat 35.1 pounds. The tester has interviewed Mr. Lee many times in order to learn some of his methods.
This member now heads his herd with Emma of Richards, an A. R. sire whose dam is A. R. record is over 500 pounds butterfat. He has also a good foundation of pure bred females among whom is a two-year-old with a 420 pounds A. R. record. Mr. Lee must have records of all stock he buys and sells, and says that good sires have won half his battles. He is also one of the best calf raisers that a dairyman could be; having gained this through years of careful dairying. He and his whole family are intensely interested in the herd and its progress.
He is a very intelligent feeder and cares for his herd's health very thoroughly. His herd is now federal accredited, is free from tuberculosis and his barn is always a model of cleanliness.
Mr. Lee is a careful student of the dairy business and with such methods
as he uses there is bound to be progress.

The high grade Jersey herd of Edward Snuggard made second high production in butterfat with 34.9 pounds per cow. Here is another advocate of the proven pure bred sire.
He was so interested in his herd that he did his own regular testing till he has built up a herd of productive individuals. In his herd are found dairy type and temperament and production.

The John Engas Holstein herd produced 34.6 pounds of butterfat per cow. This breeder is now building up one of the good Holstein herds in the community. His best sire is the son of a 27-pound two-year-old. Mr. Engas has them coming to him for his surplus young stuff.

The high cows for the month are nearly all high grades and pure breeds of all breeds and are bred for production class. The movement is now on to secure sires of A. R. production since a pure bred is of no consequence unless he has passed the Dabcock butterfat test and milk production scales.

The interest in cow testing seems to be growing, as numerous new associations are being established throughout the state. Wisconsin has not yet reached the front since we have only some 150 associations while Denmark has long since passed the 1,000 mark. As the efficiency is demanded so will the testing become more widespread. It is up to the dairyman to co-operate with the experiment station in order to provide the best cow testing service.

This list of seventy-one forty pound quality cows is the effect of scientific breeding and selection and feeding of dairy herds. High producing animals of this sort are not accidents but represent the results of years of progress in intensive dairying.

REJOICE AND BE GLAD

LET all those that seek these rejoices and be glad in them, let such as have this salvation say continually, the Lord, be magnified.—Psalm 11:16.

Slackers

WHEN the government announced its intention of giving out for publication the lists it had booked as war slackers The Tribune and Leader-Press informed its readers that this newspaper would not publish the names because the constitution guarantees. It was notorious that the lists were full of errors, and although the real slackers richly deserved to be held up to public scorn, we would not take the chances of blackening for life some good name included by oversight or because of misinformation. When Chicago papers began publishing the lists we were doubly glad of our decision, for from the first day they found themselves maligning good and true soldiers, some who had perished in France in their country's cause being included. Within a week two Chicago papers publicly announced that they would go no further with the bad business, and ceased publishing the names.

When the Wisconsin list came this experience was repeated. A Madison newspaper published the local list in full, and in its next issue was compelled to acknowledge that among the names it had printed was that of a young Madison man with an enviable war record. That others will be able to show their innocence of the charge is possible, and some who are not guilty may suffer in silence. "Better that a thousand guilty escape than that one innocent man be punished" is the substance of an old legal maxim. If the government is under obligation to punish slackers whose cases had not been reached when peace came, the proper proceeding is a trial in open court with the opportunity of public vindication where guilt is not established.

In Darkest Africa

IN the jungles of South Africa the Ethiopian lives like the beasts of the forest. He dwells in huts that are little more than nests. His light is a fire or a torch, his bed matted leaves. He grows up in the ignorance of his birth, except for his forest experiences, and he dies as he was born, a creature not far above the worms that devour his carcass. Throughout life he is at the mercy of fogs and disease.

In Wisconsin the first step from the cradle is the school. The youth is trained mentally so that he may know how to live. From childhood the citizen is safeguarded in his health, protected in his property, guarded against dangers of all kinds, has access to courts of justice in which his rights are protected, his wrongs redressed and felons who molest him awarded punishment. There are the schools, the courts, jails, asylums and sanitariums, the highways, the mails, and the public's provisions for the services of the quasi public corporations.

A vast difference in life between here and darkest Africa, truly! And what does it cost the citizen?

Last year, when taxes were abnormal, the cost was $36.75 per capita. Just $36.75 difference between living in Wisconsin and an African jungle.

Worth it? Think of this when you are next inclined to grumble about taxes. They aren't distributed with exact justice, it is true, but they're the best money we spend, and what they bring us are the cheapest things we buy. Why, without the schools alone, that made your mind what it is, you wouldn't be you at all, but some creature not far above the black man in the wilds of Ethiopia.

Jane Addams

THE election of Miss Jane Addams of Chicago to the presidency of the International Women's Congress should be very gratifying to the millions of her countrymen and countrywomen who have long held her in highest esteem for her many noble qualities of head and heart.

The election was at Vienna, where the congress has just concluded the most important meeting in its history, and was by unanimous vote of the delegates representing nearly every nation in the world.

Aside from the great personal honor involved in the election, it was significant in its bearing on the many efforts for world peace that are going forward. Miss Addams is devoting all of her great powers to this cause.

The most important action taken by the congress was the adoption of a resolution designed to line up the women of the world for non-participation in any activity that would increase the danger of war.

Fame

KNUT HAMSON, Norwegian novelist, and Nobel prize winner, was an humble fellow in America, a red-mittened driver of a horse-car in Chicago.

W. H. Davids has just been awarded a new civil pension in England, in recognition of his achievements. Before he became known as a poet of distinction he was a tramp and peddler in England and in the United States.

Ability to prosper financially is not the only test of human merit. The ragged man one passes at the next corner may have the brains to win a fame which will burn bright when everyone has forgot the richest men in La Crosse.

To Babe Ruth

This is the state of man: today he puts forth The tender leaves of hope; tomorrow blossoms, And bears his blushing honors thick upon him; The third day, comes a frost, a killing frost; And when he thinks, good easy man, full surely His greatness is a ripening—be falls as I do.

SHAKESPEARE wrote it. In his moments of almost daily triumph some such thoughts must occur to Babe Ruth who seems a sensible fellow besides being the home-run king. The crowds that today cheer his every appearance at the plate hoot tomorrow when the cunning of his eye and the power of his arm leave him. It is the crowd's way with fallen kings.

Here's hoping it will be a long time before Babe hears the hoots.

Divine Right

THE ex-kaiser is kicking against paying income and poll taxes in Holland. The business of ruling by divine right was very profitable to the kaiser. He still has a yearly income of $600,000. Divine right proves to be the only get-rich-quick swindle that ever continued to be profitable to its promoters long after the scheme was exposed.

CHURCH NEWS

Furnished by the Church News Association

The American Catholic hierarchy learns that differences of fifty years and more between the Vatican and the Italian government are in the way of successful adjustment. The plan is strongly backed from England, and consists in making a quite small territory on the banks of the Tiber in the city of Rome an independent nation, with Italian guarantees. This district, not yet determined upon, will of course include the Vatican and St. Peter's, and their spacious gardens, and probably extend to Monte Mario closely overlooking both. Here Pope Benedict XV will be a temporal sovereign, and then may follow the article of faith, to be believed by all Catholics, that their Holy Father is and must ever remain politically free of all earthly rule. What is known to have helped to this desired end is the tact of the present Pope, who began immediately he took his seat in the papal chair, to cultivate improved relations not alone with the Quirinal in Rome, but with the chancelleries of all Europe, and even of America. Part of his plan to bring about better relations with the Italian government was to permit Catholics to vote in Italian elections. For forty years they had not voted. Their entrance again into politics soon brought some of their number into office under the king, and a Catholic delegation into the Italian assembly. The diplomat of the Vatican has also rebuilt from almost nothing a diplomatic service, and secured the appointment of ambassadors by Great Britain, France, Germany, and now looks forward to an ambassador from Italy. One of the most remarkable political achievements of any nation has been the rebuilding of this diplomatic service by Benedict XV, and the laying the foundations for the political state that now seems to be a thing of the near future. The fame of the present pontiff may some time rest on his ability to iron out diplomatic difficulties.

This summer a quite new form of organized church work has been entered upon in twenty-eight cities, possibly in some others. It began in small ways with the Disciples of Christ, and came from their new headquarters in St. Louis. It has now spread to Baptists of the South, to Presbyterians of the North, to Episcopalians, and to at least one branch of the Reformed church. This new form of work is the digging up of lost Christians in cities. Church members in rural districts move to cities, and take families with them. A few take church letters, but far fewer still ever present these letters to city pastors. Constant revision of church membership rolls goes on by all bodies, and some years the losses from people who simply cannot be found are greater than all the new members received. Careful study puts ninety-seven per cent of these losses among people who quit the country and move to the cities.

Quakers are leading every other religious body in America, if not in the world, in zeal to secure military and naval disarmament. Their periodicals, both Orthodox and Hicksite, are pointing to the fact that Friends were the original peace people, and that they led in the call to churches to act in getting the American government to invite the world to consider disarmament, and principal nations actually to set about it. The united voice of all churches, including Jewish synagogues, sent up on June 5, is known to have solidified Christian sentiment as never before. In the action now to follow Quakers are asking for the honor of the hardest work.

How Lloyd George, Real Ruler of England, Stands the Strain

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON.—If Lloyd George gets a haircut, there is much gossip. If he is ill, and goes to the country for a few days' rest, there is great depression.

These statements of recent facts show how largely the "little Welsh solicitor" who is premier of the British kingdom bulks in the public eye. If it's true that King George reigns but does not rule, it's equally true that the other George rules but does not reign.

Not since the days of Gladstone and Disraeli has England had a prime minister upon whose shoulders such great responsibilities have been placed and no statesman in the present world has weathered the storms for so long.

All the great war makers and the great peace makers have passed. Wilson is in retirement. Clemenceau was defeated when he wanted to be president. Others are gone.

Lloyd George goes on. Tremendous crises like the coal strike and the Irish question fail to make him lose his hold.

How does he do it? How does he carry the burden without breaking down in health?

In a country devoted to athletics, Lloyd George has never been known as an athlete. His main exercise is golfing—and he is not on record as ever having turned in a remarkable score. He is not a naturalist, but he likes to take a few friends out on a hike over the country roads on Sundays.

Lord Lee of Fareham recently gave the nation a magnificent country estate called "Chequers" to be used as a country home for British premiers.

Those unfriendly to the premier say he doesn't read; that he doesn't know history. One of his close friends told me he is a great reader.

But it doesn't matter. He doesn't have to read history. He has been making it. He doesn't have to read books. He has been reading men and events for 20 years. He has talked with nearly every famous person in Europe and United States, and has treasured the facts they have told him in his very retentive memory.

His ability as a hymn singer illustrates his remarkable memory. Welshmen are mainly Non-Conformists belonging to other Protestant faiths than the Church of England. They are great hymn singers and as a race have sweet voices. Lloyd George is a true Welshman, and he knows all the verses and tunes of scores of hymns. His voice is a rich baritone.

Lloyd George likes to eat. He prefers French cooking to the heavy English "boiled dinners," and patronized a French restaurant in London for years.

Best of all, however, he likes Welsh dishes. When his digestion is out of whack, or when he is concentrating on some international problem and has to be careful of his written amount states it is drawn for seventy-five dollars and the figures show it was drawn for $75. What amount would you consider the check drawn for.

Answer: If the amount on the written line differs from the marginal figures, in this case, the amount on the line rules the amount of payment. Here the correct amount to be paid would be $75.00.

Financial Service Station: Can you tell me about what total amount of life insurance was in force in this country last year. AN AGENT.

Answer: Life insurance in force in the United States at the close of business December 31, 1920, totaled $42,192,742. This figure was taken from the Unique Manual-Digest for 1921 and was made up from special reports by 28 life insurance companies doing business in this country.

Dear Sir: Will you please tell me something about the latest issue of coupon bonds put out by the City of Waterloo, Conn. M. H. P.

Answer: These bonds are five per cent coupon bonds offered in an amount of $750,000. The price is on a basis to yield 5 per cent to 5.75 per cent. They carry the usual tax exempt and other features of a municipal security. They may be divided into three classes: Street improvement bonds, maturing 1922 to 1924, park bonds, maturing 1922 to 1924, and storm water drainage bonds, maturing 1922 to 1924. They are direct obligations of the city and are secured by a total valuation of $1,300,000, and a total bonded debt, including this issue, of $607,000. Prices range from 100 to 105.25, according to the maturity.

Dear Sir: What is a codicil to a will? H. R.

Answer: A codicil to a will is a supplement to it. If the maker desires to change or add to the original document, or to revoke or alter it, it is necessary to make the whole instrument. He embodies the change in a codicil which is attached to the will and has the effect of the other provisions of the original instrument itself, providing the codicil is executed with the proper legal formalities. Their contents are subject to the same legal provisions applicable to a will.

Public Debate

The question is frequently asked, now that the price of commodities is falling, "What's your opinion on light rates coming down?"

Few people seem to realize that during the war while farmers' laborers, retailers' manufacturers and property owners profits were soaring sky high that the local light rates have raised up from their former level. Their earnings did not advance comparably with commodity prices due to the fact that their earnings were anchored to the earth by state regulation. Their earnings remained at six to eight per cent while the earnings of other businesses increased one hundred per cent or even more during the last few years.

If the rates in La Crosse did not double, triple, or quadruple as other commodities, it is impossible to associate them with other commodities. Electric light and power has been and still is the cheapest commodity necessary to life on the market today.

Another explanation shows that while electric rates were not allowed to rise, the price of operation continued to increase. To get back to a pre-war basis would mean that the commodities used by the light companies must also resume the pre-war level, that is to say, coal screenings which now cost $2.50 per ton at the mines must go back to the $30 per ton where they were four years ago. Pre-war rates would mean also freight rates sixty per cent lower than they are at present.

Further search will also show that Wisconsin utilities are now bowing down an enormous and increasing tax paid. Wisconsin taxes on utilities have increased 238 per cent in the last ten years, and recent disclosures of Wisconsin legislation show that another increase of eleven per cent has been ordered for 1921. This increase in taxes counter-balances and even offsets any reductions in coal, material, supplies and operation. In some cities taxes are even forcing higher rates. People do not show much concern about such items as light rates when they are being held to earth by the railroad commission's rules and other prices are going up, but now when diet, Mrs. Lloyd George turns cook. The menu is almost entirely Welsh, and it's then that the premier really enjoys his meals.

He doesn't like wine, but he's partial to big black Havana cigars. Lloyd George doesn't care a rap about clothes. He's the worst dresser in the cabinet. Trousers look as if they never had seen a presser's foot. The premier is too busy. Too many bigger things to look after.

Lloyd George's relations with the royal family are probably more intimate than any premier since the famous friendship between Disraeli and Queen Victoria. He is not only close to the king and queen but the friend and adviser of the Prince of Wales.

When the prince wants to make a speech in the difficult Welsh tongue, he seeks Lloyd George as tutor. And he often consults him about other important speeches.

The premier's greatest friend is Lord Reading, viceroy of India. Two others are newspapermen, Lord Riddell, owner of the News of the World and Sir Henry Dalziel, owner of the Chronicle. In his cabinet his particular cronies are Sir Gordon Hewart, the attorney general, and Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland. Sir Philip Sassoon, one of his secretaries, an enormously wealthy young bachelor and related to the Rothschilds, is another intimate.

Lady Nancy Astor also can be counted among the premier's closest friends. Lloyd George has great faith in the political intuitions of women and depends for advice especially upon his wife and Lady Astor. This is true now, more than ever, with women voting in England.

I think it is still as owned. The service was first class. The fare was "stupendous"—that means two cents in our money—with transfers included. People in Glasgow told me that the net profits were sufficient to pay all city expenses, and that there were no tax assessments for city purposes. I know, some publicly owned utilities have failed and have gone back to private ownership, but I believe in all cases this has been on account of graft or politics, and is not a real argument against public ownership.

GIANT CORN, PURE-BRED STOCK, HAPPY FARMERS GREET COUNTY AGENTS ON TOUR OF LA CROSSE

Good roads!
Prosperous and contented farmers!

These are some of the things that attracted the attention of the fifty-odd county agricultural agents, farmers and business men who toured La Crosse county farms last Tuesday, under the guidance of W. B.
Spreiter, La Crosse county agricultural agent. And many of the things they saw evoked loud praise for the productivity of the soil and the energy and abilities of the farmers of the county, and they voiced this praise both at the farms and at the informal program of speeches at the agricultural school, in Onalaska, where supper was served after the trip.

Seeds With One-Horse Drill
The first farm visited was that of Hyde and Funk. Sixty acres on this stock farm are seeded to alfalfa.
The method that attracted attention was the one-horse press drill used to seed the alfalfa and small grains. Thirty-six acres of corn also was seeded with alfalfa, Grimm being used. Night area in corn were seeded to Cassock and a timothy mixture was used in the corn.

At St. Michael's Orphanage, the the basement. In the barn, plank frames, building and good lighting and ventilating systems were seen. The barn on this farm is built in the barn.
A new one-horse house is being constructed in the farm yard which when completed will be one of the finest in the county.

Five Corn on Markle Farm
At S. P. Markle's Markle who grows better Silver King corn than any other farmer in seven states and exhibits his products at the Interstate fair, the visitors saw fine, extraordinary Silver King corn, planted
May 20 that after 40 days towered more than nine feet. The corn is in excellent condition. The ears are large and fine. Four acres on the farm are sown to alfalfa. The lot is top dressed every year. The soil is sandy, being in the river bottoms. A county agent asked Mr. Markle how deep the alfalfa root ran into the earth. He said that when an old telephone pole was being dug out that alfalfa roots were found five feet below the surface and even then they didn't seem to have reached the limit of growing.

At the farm of Mrs. L. F. Easton
a fine herd of Jerseys was inspected.
There are 37 head on the place.

The Easton farm also has a fine
two-year-old Jersey bull, Marie's Nobleman, son of Golden Ferns Noble, a famous bull of New York. While Marie's Nobleman posed for his picture he was judged by Art Collette, agent, to be the best judge of cattle in the middle west and who is connected with the agricultural department of the University of Wisconsin. He was called a fine specimen and worthy of his illustrious sire
by Mr. Collette.

Convent Farms Praised

At Pleasant Home Farms, St. Joseph ridge, the tourists inspected the fine orchard, which is a good example of how well-sprayed trees will grow and bear fruit, the well-kept grounds surrounding the convent, the Guernsey herd and the Chester White hogs in their clean houses equipped with a convenient feeding floor.

A 7-year-old Guernsey bull, Pam-ple Sequel, son of Mascher Sequel, was seen at the farm of Clinton Grissold. Pample Sequel has six A.
R. sons and 30 A. R. daughters.
Mascher Sequel, sire of Pample, has the record of being one of the best bred Guernsey bulls in the United States. Pample Sequel was bought last December from a Janesville breeder by Mr. Grissold.

of Boys' and Girls' club, was the best one visited. His Guernsey herd and pure-bred Chester White hogs excited the admiration of all. Beauty Eagle's Recorder, a pure-bred Guernsey bull and her five lively daughters were brought out and paraded before the sightseers. Art Collette judged the bull, saying that the real test of a bull is the offspring and that Beauty Eagle's Recorder
surely had wonderful daughters.
Then Miss Katherine Nuttleman
posed with her pet calf, born last January. The calf is the largest and handsomest one of the five. Beauty Eagle's Recorder's dam had a record of 847 pounds of butterfat.

Thomas' Duroc Hoghouse
The Duroc hogs on J. W. Thomas' farm formed one of the finest herds of Durocs seen during the day. The hoghouse is in excellent condition.
The drainage is very good. A feeding floor is located outside of the house. In winter Mr. Thomas heats the place with a stove that costs less than $25 to equip and install and which keeps a constant supply of warm water on hand.

On H. D. Lovejoy's farm George
M. Briggs, of Madison, soy bean expert of the state, saw soy beans planted between the stalks of corn that made his heart swell with pride for Mr. Lovejoy's soy beans were the finest Mr. Briggs declared, that he had seen in the county, where they had been planted in the corn.
Mr. Briggs also found Will Van Loon's farm, north of Holman, a source of delight for Mr. Van Loon has 15 acres planted to nothing but San soy beans and the crop gives every indication of being a "bumper" one. So pleased was Mr. Briggs with his soy bean "finds" that he had his picture taken in the Lovejoy cornfield and also among the soy bean plants on the Van Loon farm.

See County's Biggest Barn

In West Salem, the county agents were shown through the barn of J.
D. McDonald. This barn, 38 feet by 200 feet is the largest in the county.
Thousands of dollars have been expended on this building, which was erected a few years ago. It houses what is said to be the finest herd of Holstein cattle and Poland China hogs in western Wisconsin. There are 75 head in the Holstein herd and the king of them all is Beauty Ormby Mercedes, a bull weighing 2,470 pounds. This animal probably is the finest specimen of pure bred animal in this part of the west. The fame of McDonald is known nationally and his praises have been sung time and again, so the writer will not attempt to add any amateurish acclamations

The Jersey herd on the farm of Mrs. L. F. Easton.

to the already long list of fine ribbons.

The only herd of Brown Swedes cattle seen on the trip were viewed at the farm of Andrew Martin. The herd is in first class condition. Two bulls in the herd were praised by Art
Collette for their fine appearance.

At Jippa Weiling's Place

When the tourists reached the end of their journey—or nearly at the end—they visited that sunny old agriculturalist, Jippa Weiling, at Amsterdam Prairie. Mr. Weiling has been a successful in raising Golden Glow or yellow corn as S. P. Markle has with Silver King, the white corn.
It was Mr. Markle who picked out the 50 ears that Mr. Weiling entered for the first time in a state contest—at the Interstate fair here and the Madison fair—and the Weiling corn captured everything in sight in the way of prizes. Besides the corn, Mr. Weiling showed a patch of everbearing strawberries, millet with heads bigger than anything seen on the trip and sudan grass that would make a cow's mouth water in anticipation of a feed.

mercial importance within a few

Balsa Wood's Lack of Weight

When we wish to express the limit of lightness, we say that a thing is "light as cork," but balsa, which is the wood of a tree native to the tropics of America, is lighter by one-third than cork. This curious wood is used for hydroplane pontoons, for toy airplanes, for surf-boards and for sportmen's decoys. Relatively to weight, it has far greater structural strength than any other kind of wood. It is coming into extensive use for refrigerator compartments on ships, and is thought likely to prove equally serviceable in refrigerator cars and cold storage warehouses.

Listen to Friend's Admonition

It is a strange thing to behold
what gross errors and extreme ab-surdities many, especially of the greater sort, do commit for want of a friend to tell them of the great damage both to their fame and fortune. For as St. James said, they are as men "that look sometimes into a glass and presently forget their own shape and favor." The best thing for any man is the admonition of a friend.—Bacon.

LAST RECITAL OF SEASON IS EVENT MONDAY AT NORMAL

Karl Scheurer, Violinist of Note, to Play in Morning at Local Institution

The last recital of the Normal School summer course promises to be delightful. Mr. Karl Scheurer, a violinist of note has been engaged to give this final program of the season on Monday morning, July 25 at ten thirty o'clock daylight saving time. Mr.
Scheurer comes from Minneapolis where he went in 1909 to become assistant concert master of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. Not only has he been a great success in this position but as a solo player he has become popular with thousands of people.

"The finest solo offering of the Summer programs thus far was the un-sensational and beautiful melodious violin concerto of Saint-Saens, Karl Scheurer is of the highest type of the interpretive artist. He played in so masterly a manner that the great Sunday afternoon audience broke out in the most genuine and irresistible applause of the season," said the Minneapolis Daily News.

Mr. Scheurer was born in Cologne, Germany in 1885. When a child he received a free scholarship at the Cologne Conservatory in competition with seventy-five other players all older and more experienced than he.
He graduated with honors as a pupil of Prof. Karl Koerner and won another free scholarship in the Royal Academy of Music at Berlin where he came under the instruction of Prof.
Dr. Joseph Joachim and Prof. Carl Halir. He was a protégé of Fritz Steinbach, the famous Brahms conductor appearing several times as soloist with his orchestra in Berlin.

In America he has pleased audiences in Boston and in the middle west.
Of his previous appearance in La Crosse it was said, "Karl Scheurer played Svendsen's 'Romance' and Mubay's 'Butterfly' with faultless and brilliantly of tone." Mr. Scheurer appeared on that occasion as soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. He is also well known as head of the Violin Department of the University of Minnesota and Director of the University Symphony orchestra.

A Belligerent Race

"I can sympathize with Mr.

waite.

an Irish problem on our hands. Her name is Noah, and she's supposed to be something around a gas range."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

OWL PERCHES ON NEW HATS

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK.—It's a wise bird that lights on the smart woman's hat this coming fall season.

Minerva with all her wisdom is to give the learned—or, perhaps, we should say "smart"—touch to fall and late-summer millinery. Maybe that's where the term "smart" dresser comes from!

At any rate, we can say that it's a smart girl who wears the owl hat.

as this creation by Joseph proves.
The chic Joseph turban is of tan hatter's plush. The bird rests on the top front crown. The owl is seen also perched on felt hats for late summer.

Oh, it is one of the most popular of the bird tributes. Which may indicate the erudite trend in feminine thought!

We may safely say that the owl gives the last "hoot" in what's what in fashions.

The Art of Not Hearing

The art of not hearing should be learned by all. It is fully as important to domestic happiness as a cultivated ear, for which both money and time are expended. There are so many things we ought not to hear, so very many which, if heard, will disturb the temper, corrupt simplicity and modesty, detract from con-tinentment and happiness, that everyone should be educated to take in or shut out sounds according to his or her pleasure.—Exchange.

EX-SERVICEMEN GET CHANCE FOR FINE EDUCATION

Forty Thousand Men in Three States Approved for Vocational Training

The Federal Board for Vocational Education is that branch of the United States Government to which has been assigned the problem of rehabilitating our wounded and disabled ex-service men. It has fourteen district offices throughout the United States, and each of these offices is responsible for a certain amount of territory. District No. 8 is comprised of the states of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, and its Office is located at Chicago, Illinois.

At present there are approximately 4,000 men in the above mentioned three states who have been approved for vocational training. Many of these men have elected various courses of training, but a number of others have not as yet seen fit to accept the benefits of the Rehabilitation Act.

Many Different Courses

Under the present system, the Government offers to these men practically every course and kind of education that it is possible to obtain in this country. A man may select an evening course, correspondence course, or a day course, as he so desires; and can be trained on a job, or in a school, the choice in this matter rests largely with the individual. In this district at the present time we have men enrolled in hundreds of different courses of study, amongst which we find Agricultural, Mechanical, Electrical, Technical, Professional, and Educational Courses.

All Training Expenses Paid

In this District alone about $1,000,000 is being spent each month to train these boys. Of this sum less than seven percent is used for overhead expenses. If a man is vocationally handicapped and therefore entitled to the benefits of Section Two of the Rehabilitation Act, he receives $80 to $100 per month training maintenance pay for himself, and an additional allotment for each dependent. Besides this sum of money, the Government pays all tuition and supply expenses incurred in the man's training.

Every ex-service man who has been wounded or disabled during his period of enlistment in the United States Army is urged to consider this proposition very carefully. Any man who is interested may learn all details regarding the training and the manner in which to make application for it, from the Local Office at Madison, Wis.; Local Supervisor, Walter Christolm.

Not Enthusiastic
"So you want to be my son-in-law, do you?" asked the man, with as much fierceness as he could assume. "Well," said the young man, "I shall have to be if I marry your daughter."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Let No Corn spoil one happy hour

ANY corn ache nowadays is unfair to yourself.

You can stop it by a touch. You can end the whole corn in short order.

The way is Blue-jay—either liquid or plaster. One moment applies it, the next moment forgets it.

The pain stops. Then the corn soon loosens and comes out. Blue-jay has done that to not less than 20 million corns.

It does it in the right, the gentle, the scientific way. Harsh treatments are unnecessary now. It is vouched for by this great laboratory, famous the world over.

If you use wrong methods, cease them. If you pare corns, quit. There is now an ideal corn ender. It is saving millions of painful hours.

Ask your druggist for Blue-jay. Apply it tonight. It will end your dread of corns.

"AGENT OF SOVIET" SPENDS MILLIONS IN CONTRACTS; IN JAIL

Faces Espionage Charge After Midwest Manufacturers Scramble for His Patronage

ACCOUNTS IN CHICAGO
BANK SOUGHT BY U. S.

Thousands Spent Dining Him
During His Stay in Big City

CHICAGO, Ill.—Federal agents Saturday began an investigation of Chicago banks to determine whether Max Schallman, self-acclaimed representative of Soviet Russia who distributed contracts for millions of dollars worth of goods, had accounts or safety deposit boxes in them.

Attempts will be made to have Schallman return part of the money said to have been turned over to him by American business men, according to Jacob Spolansky, an agent of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, who has been investigating the affair.

Further details of the manner in which Schallman distributed contracts for supplies for Soviet Russia totaling more than $450,000,000, were revealed by Assistant United States District Attorney Robert A. Milroy and Spolansky, who arrested the former Milwaukee man, a native of Russia.

Thousands Spent Dining Him
Thousands of dollars were spent by business men in several cities entertaining Schallman, the government asserts.

J. Doyle, president of a Chicago shoe company, came forward and told how he had obtained a $55,000,000 contract for shoes from Schallman and asked to see Doyle and placed an order, after many conferences, for 10,000,000 pairs of shoes for $35,000,000. Doyle submitted a $1,000,000 contract to J. L. Walker company of Boston, $25,000,000 to the Huntington Shoe company of Huntington, Ind., $800,000 to the E. Mayer Boot and Shoe company of Milwaukee, and $500,000 to the Levinson Shoe Manufacturing company of Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. Doyle told the government agents he spent $3,500 entertaining Schallman and devoted eight months of his time, which he valued at $1,500 a month, to the contract.

Relative of Trotzky?
Samuel Schallman, son of Max, was a frequent guest when Doyle entertained the father, he said, and on one occasion leaned over the dinner table to whisper confidentially "do you know my mother's a niece of Trotzky?"

On another occasion, Doyle said, the son whispered that "Trotzky is on the north side with father. He's been here three days."

Schallman also had dealings with the Packard Motor company of Detroit. Mr. Doyle said, according to Milroy and his plans interested the officials of that company to such a degree, that they offered to send him a special limousine for his family use. This offer Schallman is said to have refused.

Doyle reported he furnished shoes worth $125 to members of Schallman's family, while C. H. Garber, of the Erie Steam Shovel works, entertained the Schallmans from November 15, 1920, until Thanksgiving, and purchased clothing and accessories for the Russian.

Held Cabinet Meetings
The efficiency cabinet met in the building of the American Textile company, on Michigan boulevard, Chicago, where President McAdory had furnished offices for Schallman after receiving a large contract. McAdory was charged with the automobile business men devoted their attention to clothing, buttons and other things.

A taxiderman from whom the Russian is said to have ordered a large number of automobiles, placed a cab at Schallman's disposal 24 hours a day, Milroy said.

Schallman is still in jail here having failed to raise bonds following his arrest for violation of the espionage act in alleged false representation of himself as an agent of Soviet Russia, and contracting business for a foreign government without first registering with the secretary of state.

MEXICAN OIL FIRE SUBDUED; LOSS IN TEXAS OVER MILLION

MEXICO CITY.—Fire in the Amatlan oil fields, which broke out Wednesday and caused property damage estimated at several million dollars, has been reduced to two wells.

BEAUMONT, Texas.—More than a million dollars in oil is reported already to have been lost in a fire and four huge tanks still burning at Lucas, seven miles from Beaumont. The fire started Friday night when lightning struck one of the huge wooden tanks containing three hundred thousand barrels of crude oil and when the tank holed over, burning fuel spread to others.

Originally, rubber grew only in the Para district of Brazil.

MILLIONAIRE TRAMP IS NOW PATIENT AT A LOCAL HOSPITAL

Famous Globe-Trotter Recuperating While Enroute from Dayton, Ohio to St. Paul

PAID $1.28 RAILROAD FARE
IN TRAVELS OF 11 YEARS

Has Record of Being Arrested
608 Times in the United States

BEN RIDDER, known as the "millionaire tramp," who globe-trotted for eleven years during which time he spent but $1.28 railroad fare, is now at the St. Francis hospital where he is recuperating while enroute from Dayton, Ohio, to St. Paul.

Due to an operation at St. Paul ten years ago when he was stricken with pneumonia, Ridder has been unable to roam about in his accustomed manner, the operation having left him without ribs on the left side and with but one lung. He is said to be the only person who has survived after an operation of this kind. Mesdies having been cut about the shoulder on his left side, Ridder is unable to raise his left hand.

Contented With His Lot

Apparently contented with his lot, Ridder greeted a reporter with a smile and a warm handshake when interviewed at a hospital Saturday noon. Before his illness, Ridder stated that he weighed over 200 pounds, but through the successive years of illness has dropped to 95 pounds.

Ridder's career is very picturesque. He received an LL. D. degree from Copenhagen university. Social reform appealed to him and he made a tour of the principal cities of the world lecturing on prison reform and child labor laws. He had wealth and during his tour of the larger cities he made a study of what he terms "the other half." Soon he abandoned spending money and lived as those about him lived.

During his years in the United States, Ridder has been arrested 608 times for violations of traffic ordinances while giving his lectures. His lectures were regarded as epics on the stony side of life. He was arrested in Chicago seven times in two hours when his audience blocked the traffic in the streets.

Likes Detective Stories

Following his operation ten years ago which incapacitated him for active duty, Ridder stated that he spends much of his time reading and writing. His table at the hospital is stacked high with various magazines and detective stories. He showed a reporter a bundle of nine letters which he had written during the morning Saturday.

Ridder is fifty-two years old. He served in the Spanish-American war under the name of William Neuman.

The score, based on a system of place at the finish stood: White Bear Yacht club, seven; Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club, three. The two remaining races for the trophy will be sailed Monday and Tuesday.

probably will be rewritten. Consequently, the vote of the delegation on the bill as it comes up to final adoption after the Senate action may be quite different.

On the question as to who should be supported for the chairmanship of the House appropriations committee, the delegation was divided seven to four. The delegation met on Tuesday at luncheon to thrash out this question and a vote showed the seven consisting of so-called progressive group favored Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois, while the four others representing the conservative branch of the party in the state favored Representative Charles R. Davis of Minnesota.

Mr. Madden was elected by the vote of the committee on committees on which Mr. Frear represents Wisconsin. In the election of Mr. Madden, the committee violated a long standing precedent. Mr. Davis, as the ranking member of the appropriations committee would by the seniority rule have become chairman in place of James W. Good of Iowa, who resigned.

The election was regarded of great importance in as far as under the organization of the House in accordance with budget reform, the chairman of the appropriations committee, at the head of a committee of thirty-five members in charge of all appropriations, wields tremendous power. He is regarded as the most powerful committee chairman in the House.

The revenue stamp office at Madison will not be moved to Milwaukee, John M. Nelson of Madison, has been informed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The removal of the office was considered, but met with vigorous opposition in Madison. The opposition of the Madison Chamber of Commerce and the bankers of Madison was taken up with the Bureau of Internal Revenue by Mr. Nelson.

They contended the removal of the office from the city would entail many disadvantages to them. In consequence, it was decided there should be no change.

The purchase of a site and the erection of a public building at the cost of $100,000 at Virginia was proposed in a bill introduced in the House on Thursday by Mr. Beck. Although there will certainly be no action in this session of Congress toward providing funds for the erection of public buildings, there may be brought out in the next session beginning in December an omnibus bill for this purpose.

There are at present pending before the House literally hundreds of bills for work on public buildings in all parts of the country. The aggregate expenditure proposed runs into the millions of dollars, and in view of the demand for economy, Congress is not ready now to spend money for this purpose.

Senator Irvine L. Jenroot and Adolphus P. Nelson returned from trip with the party inspecting the St. Lawrence waterways project on the week end. The enthusiasm about the plans probably will take legislative shape in the next session of Congress.

"The International Joint Commission," Mr. Nelson said, "is expected to lay before Congress and the Canadian parliament their recommendations some time in October. They have already in their hands the engineers report, but will have to work on it for some time before their turn to make a report comes."

"The report probably will be the basis for legislation, I expect to do all within my power to further this project," and Senator Jenroot, of course, will continue his fight in the Senate on this matter when the time comes. It will be a tremendous boon to the state and to all the ports along Lake Michigan."

Mr. Nelson has for some time advocated development of this project, and one of his speeches on the subject has been highly commended by leading government officials.

CLOTHING PRICE UP, FOOD DOWN, REPORT OF BOARD

Slight Changes Each Way During June, According to Industrial Conference Body

NEW YORK.—Clothing, with an average increase in price of nine tenths of one percent was the only necessity that went up during June, according to statistics made public Saturday by the national industrial conference board.

Food was the only item that went down, the decrease being figured at the three tenths of one percent.

The statistics showed the decrease of living costs during the year ending July 1, amounted to 21 percent. Counting the reductions on July 1, however, living costs still show a net increase of 61 percent over those of July 1, 1914.

WARNS AGAINST THE AMERICANIZING OF CHINESE REPUBLIC

British Writer in Peking Points to Danger to Britain of Tendency

DECLARES AMERICA IS REARING THE CHINA OF TOMORROW

Many Chinese Attending American Schools and Colleges

London.—A solemn warning on the menace to Britain of the "Americanization of China" is uttered by a special far-eastern correspondent of the Daily Mail, who recently attended the tenth anniversary celebration of the American indemnity (Peking) college in Peking.

The college was established as a result of the United States government's promise to give a share of the box indemnity.

"The boys here are China's future leaders," the correspondent says, and after pointing out that they all go to America after completing their studies in Peking, he continues:

"Educated under the American system, aware that they owe their scholarship to American justice, and saturated with American sentiment by five to eight years' residence in the United States, they will look to America solely for co-operation in the troublous years to come. America is rearing the China of tomorrow."

"Why should not we," (the British) he demands, "share an influence that we formerly monopolized and that is now slipping away from us?" and he goes on:

"I asked a returned student as we watched the boys at baseball why China did not look to England as an educational field."

"Sure we will," he replied, "when you remember the incident."

The Chinese president of the college put it in the correspondent's way: "Chinese-American friendship has become so proverbial that few people take the trouble to investigate the cause of such good international understanding. Any country that wishes to captivate the hearts of the Chinese can do no better than follow the example set by America."

B. Lehoucq-Stumpson, an Englishman who holds the post of political adviser to the Chinese government and who is at present in London, writes to the Daily Mail that the process of the Americanization of China is a very real one.

"Big business," he says, "is tending to go more and more to American firms, because the Chinese believe in favoring those who favor them," and he concludes:

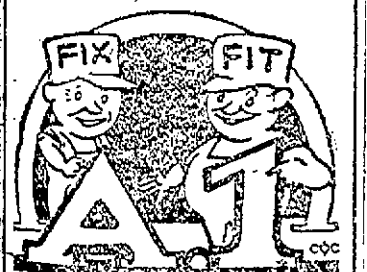

"The helplessness of America, not only to Young China but also to Old China is a subject of common conversation, throughout the immense Chinese society which fills the far-eastern continent. So far the results of this have not been felt or understood in this country, but unless we take speedy action, we are destined to drop during the next twelve months to third or fourth place in the Chinese republic, and thereby affect our whole standing throughout Asia."

Meanings of Oats in Dream
To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding hour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To sow oats signifies much happiness and gain.

PORTO RICO SETS ASIDE 4 MILLION FOR ITS SCHOOLS

Total Budget of Ten Millions Approved by Governor

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Out of a budget of $10,000,000 passed by the recent legislature and just approved by Acting Governor Jose Benedito, a little more than $4,000,000 is set aside for the public schools of the island. This is $1,000,000 more than the last school budget and the largest amount ever appropriated for education in any one year.

The budget is the largest ever approved, including bond issues and direct appropriations, the total amount of $20,000,000 but several of the projects involving large sums may be vetoed by the governor. Among the bond issues authorized were those for $3,000,000 for the extending of a railroad around the island; $1,000,000 for an insular bank; $2,000,000 road extension and improvement bonds and $1,000,000 for rural schools.

A new income tax law provides a normal tax rate of three per cent for both individual and corporate incomes, and limits the additional income tax to 15 per cent for individuals and to 20 per cent for corporations.

The law provides that "additional returns" may be filed where revisions are necessary for individuals or firms whose returns last August were based on anticipated profits which were not received.

A commission was authorized to study a proposal that the insular government purchase steamships from the United States shipping board to provide better transportation for the island.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE FOR DRUNKS PENALTY IN KENTUCKY TOWN

Unique Punishment Fast Making Coal Mine Camp a Model Community

PENEVILLE, Ky. — "Drunk and disorderly! Go to church morning and night and Sunday school every Sunday for five weeks."

Verdicts something like this rendered by the Superintendent of a coal company at Black Mountain, 50 miles up the Cumberland Valley from here have cut trouble to a minimum, according to Rev. Otis Reagan, Superintendent of the Southeastern district of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The church maintains a community house and community work in the Black Mountain camp.

This scheme of "punishment" for disorders at the camp was conceived and carried out by A. W. Miller, the superintendent of the company, according to the Rev. Mr. Reagan. There had been considerable drinking, shooting and other trouble in the camp. The superintendent became "sold" on the community program and decided that if he could sell the employees of the company it would have a tendency to maintain order.

So when a man got drunk and fired his pistol or created other trouble he was brought before the superintendent. Evidence was heard and the decision of the superintendent rendered. In every instance the order was that the man should either get out of camp at once or accept the alternative of going to Sunday school and morning and evening services for a given number of Sundays.

The number varies, according to Rev. Mr. Reagan, with the superintendent's idea of the seriousness of the offense.

"Penalized" men must report each Monday morning to the superintendent whether or not they went to church. If they did not go they must give a reason and the superintendent is the judge as to the validity of the reason.

The result, according to Rev. Mr. Reagan, has been that the camp is rapidly becoming one of the most orderly in the mountains, while the Sunday school has more than 200 regular attendants and morning and evening services are attended by from 200 to 300 persons.

At the Wrong End
An English schoolmaster asked a new boy his name.

"John Thompson," was the blunt reply.

"Sir!" shouted the schoolmaster, who was a stickler for politeness. "I want you to put a 'sir' to it."

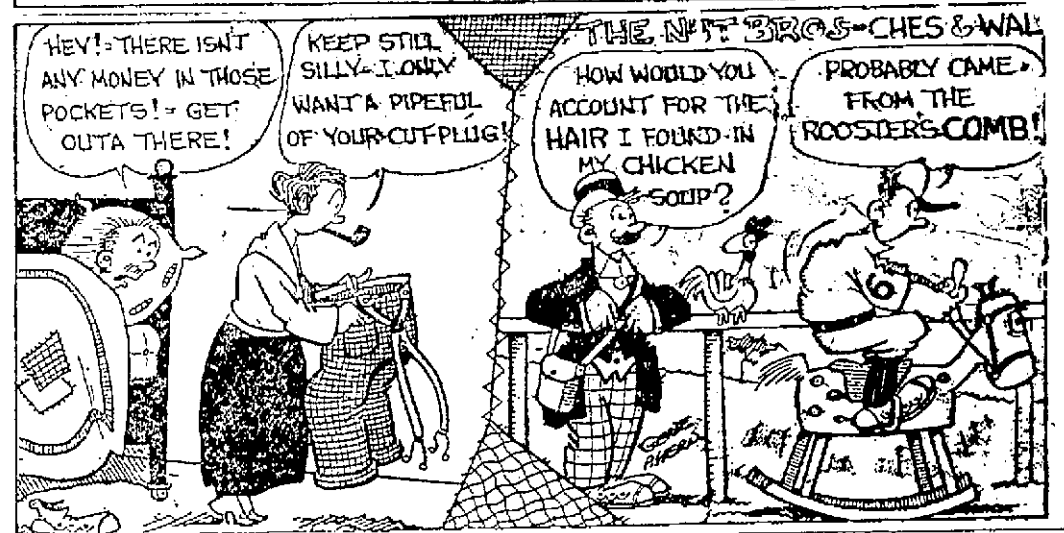

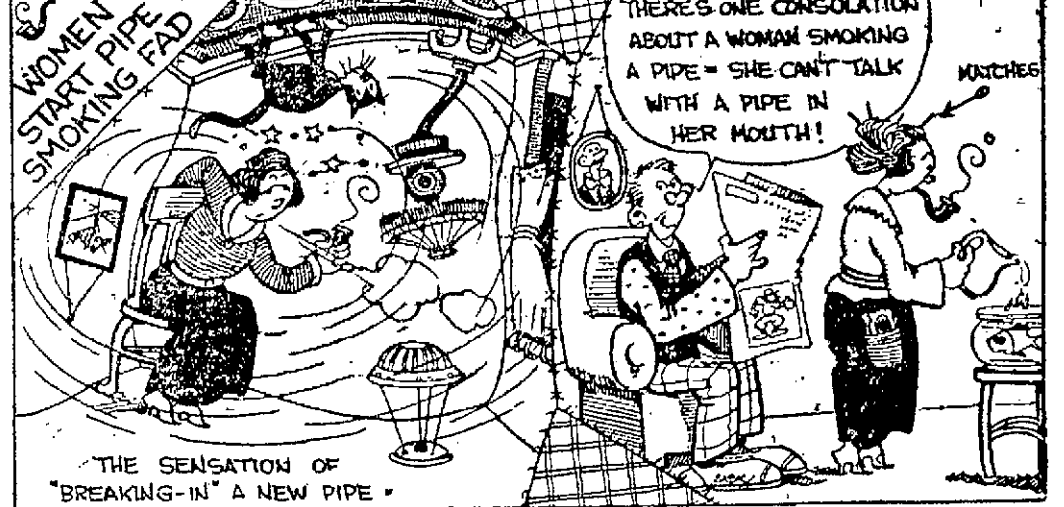

"Sir John Thompson," said the boy innocently. —Boston Transcript.

To Look For Charities

Always Dependable
DR. WATTERSON
The Painless Dentist

—and While the Wife Pulled the Plow

It's common in many European countries even today, to see women in the fields pulling the plow.

But husbands think more of wives, and men more of mothers, here in America—and out of that fact has grown the Semi-limited Laundry Service we offer.

Of the many, many women who send us their washing, more than half first turned to us on suggestion of their husbands and sons, who recognized that washing is harder work than women should be required to do.

Here are the details of this service: Every week, at a set time on set days, we call for your entire family washing; then we wash everything in cleansing, feathery suds and rainsoft water; snowily iron the flat work; fluffily dry bath towels, underwear, etc., so they can be immediately used—and leave for you only the ironing of those things which most women insist on finishing themselves.

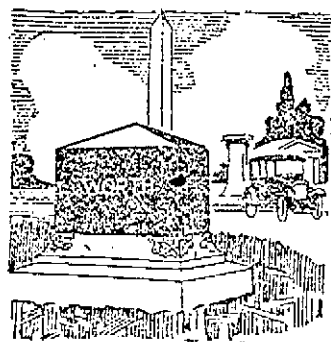

There's more than relief from labor in this service—there's real clothes conservation—no boiling, no rubbing—just gentle, thorough cleansing.

Put it up to us to demonstrate. Telephone tomorrow and our representative will call.

INTERSTATE FAIR IS GIVEN BIGGER PLACE AMONG EXPOSITIONS

Inauguration of Boys' and Girls' Club Contests Increases Interest in Fair

With the inauguration of the boys' and girls' club and pig club contests, the La Crosse Interstate fair this year takes on added importance as an interstate exposition.

This fact has been impressed upon the minds of officers and directors of the fair association by the keen interest displayed and many inquiries received from Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin regarding the boys' and girls' club contests. This has prompted the fair officers, in getting out advertising posters this year, to feature the club contests and herald the department as one of the big features of the fair.

Fair workers have finished placarding Trempealeau county, and during the next two or three weeks will complete the placing of advertising posters in Buffalo, Houston, Monroe, Jackson and Vernon counties.

Always a big feature of the Interstate fair, the livestock department this year bids fair to tax the facilities of the grounds. Many of the best herds in Wisconsin and Minnesota are to be entered in the regular classes, and in addition the calves and pigs entered by the boys' and girls' clubs will be shown in a special tent erected for the purpose.

A large field of entrants is assured in the racing events, as a result of the added money purse system inaugurated this year. In preparation for the fair, the track is being dragged, and training of race horses already quartered on the ground is helping to put the course in first class condition.

Milkweed Seeds
The milkweed seeds are concealed in a pod, which breaks open and exposes them to the wind. Up they go through the air, each seed carried by a ball of silky down, the threads so frail that you are astonished when you examine them with a microscope. Each thread turns out to be a separate tube ribbed with dark vein-like streaks arranged in an irregular manner. When a milkweed pod bursts open you can imagine yourself at a miniature aero meet, in which scores of white craft soar up into the morning wind.

LEGION MAKES WAR ON FALSE CLAIMS FOR U. S. BENEFITS

Organization Takes Steps to Prevent Misuse of Government Aid

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—National headquarters of the American Legion has taken steps to prevent misuse of government benefits for ex-service men, according to a statement made by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant.

"It has been brought to our attention that a few men have deliberately falsified claims for compensation, vocational training and medical treatment," said Mr. Bolles. "Considering the large number of wounded veterans who are entitled to every benefit the government can give, the number of impostors is not large. But, few as they are, their action works a hardship on the disabled."

"Cases of deception have been numerous lately, due to the rush of claims, following the Legion's fight for government efficiency. However, the legion will find time and means to expose any impostors who come to us for assistance in pressing their claims."

All legion posts have been instructed to furnish government bureaus with information they obtain about men concerning whose disability any doubt exists. The post activities in favor of the genuinely disabled will continue.

The Walrus

One time has come the Walrus said
Go talk of many things
Of shoes and ships and sealing wax
Of cabbages and kings.

BY C. A. W.

Some wise man discovered once upon a time, after traveling to a point which he thought was far distant, that the world was a pretty small place after all, and everyone who wanders any distance from his own fireside has been occurring in this conclusion ever since. Walter E. Benjamin, La Crosse mechanic who found his real opportunity during the late war and is now with the division of operations, United States shipping board emergency fleet corporation, discovered it, way up in St. James, N. P., the other day, and was moved to pen the following epistle to the city editor of this family journal: "You will recall the news item regarding the American steamship 'Charlotte' that hit an iceberg off the coast of Newfoundland. Well, you can imagine my surprise when making a transfer of the 'Charlotte's' cargo to another American vessel to descend upon a shipment of 360 tons of flour from the Listman Milling company. It only shows what a small world we live in, and I often come in contact with La Crosse products in all corners of this planet of ours. Another incident was a Bump Perfected Paper fastener that greeted me in Gijon, Spain. I related in my very best broken Spanish that Mr. Bump and myself assembled the first fifty of 'em in the old Stamping and Tool company's plant ages ago. (Signed) Walter E. Benjamin."

The pleasures and perils of overland auto travel are aptly illustrated in a letter just received from Gus Abraham, who acted as pathfinder for three La Crosse cars which left here May 24, and have now safely arrived at Portland, Ore. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Abraham, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Wick and Casper Anderson and son. The genial Gus, after telling of the grandeur of the Yellowstone Park and other beauty spots en route, dwells on the peril of the mountain auto paths and notes how two tourist cars tumbled down the cliffs, the occupants of one escaping, but the other party was not so fortunate. Gus says the mountain road made him suffer from insomnia, but, being in a statistical mood, the local man opines further that the gallons of gasoline sufficed for the entire trip, five new tires adding to the expense account. We hope that Gus and his party return by a safer route, as a fall down a mountainside might wreck a perfectly good box of California prunes which we are eagerly awaiting.

The Music Study club of Ft. Atkinson, Wis., has bestowed an exceptional honor upon little Helen Louise Stewart, La Crosse dancer, by engaging her as a special attraction for a two days' appearance. The artists previously engaged by this club, I am told, have always been chosen from the ranks of well known grand opera stars, so that this particular engagement is especially prized by Helen Louise. Immediately after this appearance she will go to South Haven, Mich., to resume, for a month, her instruction under Farley Ostrinsky at their summer studio. Helen Louise will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Ray D. Stewart, and brother Ranous.

The following news item clipped from a recent issue of the Kenosha Evening News will be of interest to many La Crosse people: "H. P. Miller, who has been in charge of the state co-operative laboratory at the city hall since it was opened in 1916, has been recognized by the state board of health, and at a meeting in Madison on Tuesday, the state board formally elected Mr. Miller as director of the laboratory. The position has been filled in the past by Dr. G. Windesheim, a member of the state board of health. The appointment of Mr. Miller was accompanied by a high compliment for the efficiency which he has maintained at the Kenosha laboratory. The state pays a portion of the cost for maintaining the laboratory." Mr. Miller is a former La Crosse man and is well known here, his home being at 1532 Caledonia street.

Frank Weller, more familiarly known among newspapermen and printers hereabouts as "Shorty," blew in a few days ago from the Twin cities for a short visit with old friends, looking just as dapper and almost as young as when he "struck type" on the Chronicle back in the '90s. Following a lunch which prompted him to drop the compositor's stick some years back, Mr. Weller has had a fair measure of success in the real estate game up north and is now sort of sitting on the sidelines watching his dollars work for him, except when the spirit moves him to go out and swap a piece of property for something else, or turn a deal at so much per. In the language of the street, Frank is "sitting pretty."

Will Strauss, who runs a shoe store in Pearl street when he is not out flitting with members of the tiny tribe, is authority for the latest fish story. Mr. Strauss and his shoemaker, Anton Secky, were down in Running slough enjoying a half holiday when they saw three men in a boat nearby suddenly desert themselves as a result of the chap in the

LA CROSSE CHOSEN FOR A STUPENDOUS SPECTACULAR EVENT

Elaborate Preparations in Progress for Big Masonic Event on August 13

Plans for the mid-summer ceremonial to be staged by Tripoli temple in this city August 13, under the auspices of the La Crosse Shrine club, took on added interest during the past week, when it became known that arrangements had been made by the Wisconsin Masonic organization to initiate candidates from Minnesota during the session in this city.

To see that the brethren from the copper state are given a wide cross the hot sands in style, a Osaman temple band and patrol of St. Paul will journey to La Crosse to participate in the ceremonies and festive events which will mark the occasion.

Efforts are being made to obtain a class of 300 candidates for the Shrine ceremonial here. Already over 150 knight templar have signified their intention of taking the degree here, and new candidates are being listed every day by C. J. Sleer, chairman of the membership committee.

Out After Candidates All the commanderies in the western part of the state are being combed for candidates. During the week Mr. Sleer, W. P. Hurtgen and F. W. Sisson made an auto tour of the commanderies in the southwestern part of the state, and returned home with a long list of candidates who will become nobles here on August 13.

The La Crosse nobles are straining every effort to make this ceremonial on the banks of the father of waters the event of Shrine-dom in the Mississippi valley. The keen interest which is taken in the forthcoming event is shown by the reserving of sidetrack space for special trains at all of the railroad stations in the city, and reservations for rooms at hotels and private residences, indicating an attendance of several thousand persons on the day of the ceremonial.

Zarso Gives Approval Henry P. Zarso, imperial potentate of Tripoli temple, after conferring with officers and committees, pronounced arrangements for the ceremonial here complete and returned to Milwaukee to arrange for the transfer of a train-load of nobles and equipment to La Crosse.

The ceremonial will be staged in the biggest tent obtainable in Wisconsin, to be erected on the fair grounds, according to announcement made by C. W. Noble, chairman of the grounds and building committee. In addition to the lodge ceremonies, there will be band concerts and parades for the public, steamboat excursions during the day and other festive events.

Director is Here Ceremonial Director Harry G. Bennett and several principal assistants made a visit to this city to inspect arrangements and the Kingmasters of Tripoli are now busily engaged in working out their program. This is planned on a fairly stupendous how sent hooking a fish. Unable to control the monster, the man in the bow handed his pole to the man in the next seat, saying "Here, Bill, you land it for me." Just as Bill got the pole the fish got a sudden lurch to take a dive under the boat and after bending the rod nearly double, broke the line. "Gosh, I lost him," said Bill. "Lost nothing!" exclaimed the man in the stern of the boat as a perfectly good pickerel, with a foot of fish-line dangling from its mouth leaped over the side of the boat and landed in his lap.

Winoona Coming Strong Winoona Shriner are formulating plans to attend the Shrine Ceremonial at La Crosse, Saturday, August 13, when 200 candidates are to be initiated. At a special meeting of the Winoona Shrine club last night at the Masonic temple, arrangements were made for members of the local club to attend by appointing a transportation committee which will arrange for automobiles to take the members to La Crosse. Ed Cohn, chairman; William M. Hardt and George W. Herrick have been appointed on this committee. Another committee which will have charge of the decoration of the automobiles was also appointed. It consists of Louis Langdon, chairman; Gordon Ostrom and William Hardt.

Wives of the members and families as well as Shriner from the neighboring communities have been extended an invitation to attend with the local delegation.

scale, as are the locals details at La Crosse, suggesting that this will be not only a big event as a Mid-Summer Ceremonial Session but a Mississippi River Shrine Carnival as well.

An Opportunity for Templars The La Crosse Ceremonial will be the only opportunity for candidates to be created Nobles until the annual Fall Ceremonial Session in Milwaukee next November.

With the reputation the city of La Crosse holds as a gracious host, and the renown which Nobles of La Crosse and vicinity have earned for doing big things in a big way, the Ceremonial on August 13, undoubtedly will be one of the largest and most spectacular affairs in the history of Shrine-dom in the Middle West.

PRINCESS NADONIS

By O. D. BRANDENBURG

Of all the many Indian roundabouts Kilbourn just now, none is more interesting than the Princess Nadonis. Properly, one should add Shawa, which means White Eagle, who is her husband. She is an Ojibway but half French, born at Quebec about thirty years ago, and retains the characteristics of the native American chiefly in her wonderful bronze coloring. She is a beauty with none of the high cheek bones and narrowing forehead of the Indian, but with massive hair, thick braids across her ample bust. The Princess Nadonis is well educated—self educated she said—and the task has been well performed. She talks in cultured vogue and is delightfully animated. She has glorious black eyes, regular features, and almost has something of the stature of an Amazon except in height which merely is that of a rather large woman. There are no angles in her figure. Her hands are small and nicely shaped as also are her arms, neck, and her features.

Two years ago she made a notable alliance when she married Kanokah White Eagle, whose great-grandmother was Glory of the Morning, famous in the Menasha region upwards of 200 years ago. This Glory of the Morning was herself a chief's daughter, her name being Ho-po-kaw. She was a sister of the principal chief of the Winnebagoes, or, according to some authorities, a daughter. She married a French trader named De Carre, which in due time was corrupted into Decorah—and among the Indians at Kilbourn who participated in the recent Winnebago war dance which ran through several days, were many descendants bearing the name.

"What is the correct spelling?" I asked the Princess Nadonis. "Decorah," she replied. "The 'n' is especially significant as indicating Indian." She added: "That gives it the true Indian characteristic." And directly descendant from the Glory of the Morning is Kanokah White Eagle. "O, he is handsome," exclaimed the Princess Nadonis; "isn't he?" she inquired turning to Mrs. Al. Ringling, upon whom the princess had dropped in at her hotel on Mirror Lake, near Kilbourn. "I did not see the White Eagle. He was at the upper end of Mirror Lake in a cottage which he and his wife have purchased and where they hope to make their permanent home. "He is a full blood Winnebago," she said, "and magnificent."

Evidently the princess is vastly proud of her royal husband. They have no children.

I asked the princess if she understood English well. "Dig Soldier was my grandfather," said he. "Dig Soldier was friend of the whites in the Black Hawk war. He never got a pension. Could I have what he earned?" I was fain to tell him that I had little faith that he could persuade the government to give him a pension for services performed by his grandfather ninety years ago.

"I had a son who was in the Philippine war," continued the policeman gravely, "but he didn't live long after he came home and I never got a pension for him either."

"Yes," said a comely Indian woman of perhaps thirty, when I had been informed that Mrs. John Mann had received her education in the Carlist Indian school in Pennsylvania. "I am Mrs. Mann and I was at Carlisle five years." She was full bodied without question, high cheek bones, and every other mark that distinguishes the Indian; but she talked with all the facility of a well educated white woman.

"How did you happen to go to Carlisle?" I asked. "Well, I had been at the Indian school in Tomah," she replied, "and my mother died and there was unhappiness in our family. I asked the postmaster finally if I couldn't get into a bigger Indian school and in a little while railroad tickets came and I went to Carlisle. I did not come back for five years and I expected to finish my course. I had gone to the sophomore year. Then I went to work in Congressman Esch's home at La Crosse.

"Did you take domestic science at Carlisle?"

"No they started that soon after I left. I had all the ordinary studies, including history and algebra. Then I set type in a printing office at Valley Junction and married. I lost my little girl," she said sorrowfully, "but I have a son. We have a farm of 40 acres near Valley Junction. It's a good farm and we are getting up." Mrs. Mann had a gay ribbon band round her forehead, a heavy string of beads hung from her neck and she was in occasion and otherwise in Indian regalia. Her husband, a stalwart fellow, spoke in clear English, and when I asked upon approaching his tent, if Mrs. Mann lived there, he snapped me up sharply, rather as if I had no business to be inquiring about Mrs. Mann anyway.

Three little Indian girls of ten or eleven were romping merrily with their innocent games some distance away from the tents on the grass under the trees. One Indian woman I noticed who sat against the tentpole with her feet outward wore shoes with high heels—one of the incongruous spectacles I witnessed and the only shoes, barring one pair, I saw in camp. The other pair was being shined by a young Indian lad with all the dexterity a Greek might display. The most modern object on the grounds, were spoils of tickets, exactly like those manipulated at movie windows. These tickets one bought as he entered the grounds and also when he stepped into the grandstand in front of which the war dances occurred. Evidently a regular accounting system prevailed. The show clearly had a commercial head. No loose cash methods prevailed.

An unfortunate feature of this Indian show was the presence of Coney Island features—bisque dolls to be won in various ways, fortune telling, a miniature midway, cheap, tawdry, inappropriate, discrediting the exhibition well worth while in other ways.

Thru Chiropractic

Chiropractic is not medicine, not surgery, not osteopathy, not massage, but it is the science which treats of the cause of disease, and is the art of correcting the cause which in turn eliminates the effects or symptoms—the part of which you are aware. If the cause of disease is removed, Nature is then given a chance to carry on harmonious metabolism, the symptoms disappear and the result is health. Come to see me and I will be glad to explain Chiropractic principles to you. It is second to none in the healing arts! It is the natural way.

OUTING AND MOTOR PARTIES DOMINATE WEEK'S ACTIVITIES

RELAXING FROM the strain of the long period of intense heat, the cooler days have been hailed with delight by every one. No large functions and very few smaller affairs have been planned for the past week, the prevailing desire being to rest from activity and recuperate. Into the open is the most popular of all diversions at present, picnics and auto riding the attractive features. UNFROCKED MONK IS FOSTERING REVOLT IN RUSSIAN CHURCH

Bolsheviki Trying to Combat Revival of Church Attendance Among the People

RIGA, Latvia.—The monk Helder Helodorus, former preceptor and afterward antagonist of the notorious Rasputin, is again attracting attention in Russia by announcing his purpose to start a revolution in the Orthodox Russian church. Helodorus fled from Russia after his break with Rasputin in the early part of the war but returned after the bolsheviki gained control. He was unfrocked by the church.

His reappearance in public in Russia was almost simultaneous with a revival of fervor in the Orthodox church, which the bolsheviki now are trying to combat. In an address at the Tsaritsin (of which he was formerly abbot) he recently declared:

"I consecrate myself to the fight for the people's cause and to start a campaign against the popes (priests), which is to make a revolution within the church."

Every Sunday and on many religious feast days in Russia the churches now are crowded. Communists, themselves, are attending the services and this has brought down on their heads a warning from the government "not to set so bad an example for the peasants." On that subject, the Moscow Pravda says that some of the Communists even have used soviet official automobiles to take their families to church services, weddings and christenings. The newspaper printed the following warning from the party heads:

"The soviet power has no intention to compel anyone by forcible means to leave off the services of professional darkness, but the Communist party as a whole has a right and is bound to demand from its responsible members that they not only should not take part in religious ceremonies and services, but should by example and explanation to others to overcome all religious superstition. Every member of the party directly and openly should recognize and strengthen by the example of his own conduct the truth that religion and scientific Communism are absolutely incompatible."

A MODERN CAVE MAN

By LILIAN HALL CROWLEY

David Henderson, sitting in a secluded spot of the veranda in the depths of despair, was startled out of his unhappy line of thought when he heard his name mentioned. He got up thinking the speaker was looking for him. Then the words arrested him for a moment. He was behind some cotted plants and egress was so easily gained. He did not intend to listen, but could not help hearing the following in a girl's indignant voice: "Lois Mardis is just too unkind for anything—the way she treats David. I hate to see her so indifferent toward him when he is so thoughtful and unselfish."

"That's just the trouble," replied another girl. "I know Lois pretty well, and I think she really loves David, but it's too uninteresting to have some one so perfect all the time. He ought to employ cave man tactics. I think she'd like it!"

"Do you really?" The voices trailed off in the distance.

David went back to his seat. "So that's it," he thought. "Just being considerate of a woman anticipating her every wish and waiting on her devotedly is not enough. Cave man, indeed!"

He sat there a long time, and he wasn't looking at the moon either. He was thinking harder than he had ever thought before in his whole life.

After a while he arose and, with a grim smile on his usually placid face, he joined the other young people who were celebrating Lois's birthday.

He was the first to leave. Lois looked surprised for he usually lingered until he was the last one to go home, but he was not to be explained.

Many, many times he had asked her to marry him, but she had never given him the decisive word—still, she had not refused him. She kept him dangling. He had tried harder and harder to please her, and had made no headway.

The remarks tonight were a revelation. He hadn't realized it before, but he was getting tired of dangling. He would either give Lois up or he would make her come to a decision.

He didn't want to give her up! Those girls were right. He ought to get Lois with "cave-man tactics"—he certainly hadn't succeeded the other way. He would bide his time, and if she preferred being knocked on the head with a club and then dragged by the hair to his den—he'd do it.

He wanted her in any way he could get her, and he would be obliging enough to get her in the way she wished to be won.

So, one bright, sunshiny day, about noon, when it seemed that every one was out of doors, Lois and he were crossing some street car tracks on the busiest intersection of the city.

Lois was tripping along on dainty, high-heeled, black satin pumps, when she stopped suddenly with a cry of dismay. One heel of her shoe had caught in the tracks. In her effort to dislodge it she had withdrawn her foot, and she stood with the stocking foot held lightly from the dusty pavement.

"Oh why did I wear white stockings?" she groaned to herself. She felt so conspicuous.

David turned to the rescue. Cars were coming from each direction, and clanging down upon them. Pedestrians had stopped in amused interest, looking at the embarrassed girl in the white stockings and the one black shoe.

Lois looked to David confident that he could rescue the shoe. He did, but just before the cars reached them and as Lois put her white-clad foot for its black cover he put the shoe behind him.

"You don't get it until you promise to marry me!" He waved the shoe aloft.

Lois turned red with shame that she should be made such a spectacle for the passersby. Then, white with anger, she demanded her shoe.

People were laughing outright. David Henderson, sitting in a secluded spot of the veranda in the depths of despair, was startled out of his unhappy line of thought when he heard his name mentioned.

He got up thinking the speaker was looking for him. Then the words arrested him for a moment. He was behind some cotted plants and egress was so easily gained.

eral chauffeurs had stopped their motors. The street cars were coming nearer and nearer as David raised the shoe high over his head. The wretched girl was tottering on one foot like a lame duck. There was no sign of relenting on the young man's face.

"I won't!" she answered. "You will or I'll go home with the shoe and leave you here," he shouted above the noise of the traffic.

"Please, David," she begged. There was a loud guffaw from a fat man, who evidently admired David's powers of entertainment.

Lois was crimson with shame while she was unable to keep the dainty white stocking away from the dust and grime of the street.

"Promise! Promise!" He waved the shoe high as he could reach. Lois gulped. "Very well! I promise to marry you!"

"Soon?" he demanded. "Yes," she cried.

David grasped her firmly by the arm and slipped the shoe on the poor little dusty foot. The street cars went past them in a fury of noise.

They walked away in silence. Lois was frightfully angry. Reaching her door, she denounced: "I'm just marrying you because I won't go back on my word, you—you cave man!"

"I don't care about the reason, just so you marry me," he opened the door, pushed her into the hall, and following her in took her in his arms. Lois was speechless—and smiling.

SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT SHOES

Many superstitions are connected with shoes. It is thought unlucky to put either shoe on the wrong foot. Because Augustus Caesar was nearly assassinated by a mutineer one day when he put on his left shoe first, a saying has arisen that the right shoe must be put on first unless his owner wishes to court misfortune. Pythagoras, the old Greek sage, told his

COMPETITORS TURNED BACK IN EACH EVENT EXCEPTION OF ONE

Duluth Oarsmen Regain Pre-War Status in Northwestern-International Meet

DULUTH, Minn.—Duluth Boat club oarsmen regained their pre-war status in the Northwestern-International Rowing association, when they swept everything before them in the final day's events of the grand association two-day regatta.

In every event, except one—the junior four race Friday—the Duluth oarsmen turned back the representatives of the Winnipeg Boat club, the Kenora Boat club, the Thunder Bay Boat club, the Port Arthur Boat club and the Regina Boat club.

When the Duluth Boat club's sculler eight shot over the finish, three-quarters of a length ahead of Winnipeg, just before the sun settled behind hills Saturday night, expert oarsmen agreed the same type of oarsmanship had been displayed as marked contests in the past. The time in this race was 8:27. Winnipeg had pulled up to a tie at the three-quarter mile mark, a spurt at the finish gave Duluth a safe lead.

Senior Victory Impressive
The senior eight's victory was little more impressive than the winning race staged half an hour before by the Duluth junior eight over Winnipeg. It was a thrilling finishing spurt that put the local juniors 1 1/4 lengths ahead of the Canadians, completing the mile and a quarter in 6:25.

The Duluth Boat club's oarsmen beat a combination Regina-Kenora crew by four lengths over a three-quarter mile course, in 4:03.

In the junior singles, H. S. Turnbull, Winnipeg, won easily over A. Briggs of the Minnesota Boat club. St. Paul, in 8:22. Turnbull gained a lead by the quarter mile mark that Briggs never threatened to overcome.

In the work boat fours the Duluth Boat club crew by a dashing spurt at the final passed Thunder Bay, after being in second place nearly all the way. The time was 6:02.

The bantam four race was a walk-away for the Duluth Boat club. The weather conditions were ideal in contrast to the rough water of Friday.

The result of Saturday's races gave the Duluth Boat club permanent possession of the $10,000 cup trophy.

BROWNS WIN AN UPHILL BATTLE OVER RED SOX

Detroit Hits Mogridge and Wins Over Senators, 6 to 2.

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Cleveland spilled New York's hopes of taking first place in the American league again Saturday when it defeated the Yankees 3 to 0 by the brilliant pitching of Allan Sorthern, discarded by St. Louis and Boston. He held New York to three hits, one in the first inning, one in the fifth and one in the eighth. Only five Yankeys reached first and only one reached second.

Cleveland hit Hoyt freely but had many runners caught by reckless base running. Much bitterness was displayed by the contending teams and two fist fights were threatened. Score: R. H. E.

Cleveland . . . 003 000 00x—3 13 0

Browns, 5; Red Sox, 4
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—By playing an uphill game, St. Louis defeated Boston here Saturday afternoon, 5 to 4, taking the contest in the tenth inning for the eighth consecutive victory. Sister was put out of the game in the fourth when he disputed a decision. Sister, who has always been regarded as a peaceful player, had the first fist encounter of his major league career. When ordered off the field by Umpire Hildebrand at the beginning of the fifth inning, Sister attacked him and struck him on the jaw. Score: R. H. E.

Sox, 1; Macks, 3
CHICAGO, Ill.—Chicago was unable to hit Hasty in the pinches while Philadelphia hit Kerr opportunely and defeated the locals, 3 to 1 Saturday. C. Walker's great catch of Yarran's long drive in the ninth inning prevented a possible tie, as the locals had two men on the bases. Score: R. H. E.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD FOR RUNNING BROAD JUMP MADE IN INTERNATIONAL EVENT

E. O. Gourdin, Colored, of Harvard University. Places New Distance at 25 Feet 3 Inches in the Yale-Harvard Victory

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—A new world's record for the running broad jump—25 feet three inches, by E. O. Gourdin, of Harvard—was developed Saturday in the international track and field meet which the Yale-Harvard combination won from the Oxford-Cambridge team, eight events to two.

Six records fell during the afternoon, some of which had stood for almost a quarter century.

The victory of the American collegians was one of supremacy in all four field events and of speed in unexpected sources, winning four of the six running races. To the new records Harvard athletes contributed two, Yale two and Oxford and Cambridge one each.

Gourdin, a negro, who has been the principal factor in the strength of the Harvard team for the last two years, was the outstanding star. He dashed to the fore in the first event of the day, winning the 100 yard dash in which the British captain, S. G. D. Rudd, had entered in an unsuccessful effort to add to his team's potential strength. It was a hard race, with H. M. Abrams of Cambridge so close at the finish that many thought he had won.

Accepts Congratulations
Gourdin walked leisurely from the sprinting lane to the jumping pit. Without trial jump, running with easy stride, he sped down the cinder approach, made the take-off cleanly and with a mighty lunge ahead fell on the far edge of the loam pit. Satisfied with his effort before it was measured, he grinned. After the tape was applied and announcement of the record made he accepted congratulations with the same broad smile.

Gourdin's leap of 25 feet 3 inches, was farther than any jump ever credited to man. The best record of which there has been note was that of 24 feet 11 3/4 inches, made 22 years ago at Dublin, Ireland.

Gourdin Double Winner
Gourdin was the only double winner but in Captain Rudd of the British team and C. D. Crogress of Harvard the large crowd found other athletes of high ability and manifold activity. Rudd made a new record of 49 seconds for the 440 yard run, and lost the half mile run to Tommy Campbell of Yale, after a fight that furnished the best race of the day. Crogress equalled the Harvard and the international series record of 15 2/5 seconds in the hurdles, won second place in the high jump, and gained third place in the broad jump.

Other New Records
Several new records were made Saturday in the international track meet between Harvard and Yale and Oxford and Cambridge.

In the running high jump, R. W. London, Yale, won first, jumping six feet three inches, a new record. Rudd of Oxford, captain of the English team, made a new record in the quarter mile run, his time being 49 seconds.

If B. Stallard, Cambridge, won the one mile run in four minutes, twenty and two-fifths seconds, a new record.

NEARLY FIFTY TOWNS
ENDEAVOR TO SECURE
WHITE SOX PLAYERS

CHICAGO, Ill.—The baseball trial is proving a gold mine for several of the former White Sox players who are charged with conspiring to throw the 1919 world's series, for nearly fifty towns have telegraphed offers to the men to play Sunday games while the trial is in session. Over the week-end the player defendants are scattered from Oklahoma to Pennsylvania and from Minnesota to Tennessee, for exhibition games.

Eddie Cicotte and Buck Weaver are virtually the only ones not playing. Eddie wired negative replies yesterday to half a dozen queries whether he could pitch tomorrow.

"I'll never throw another ball unless it's in a major league," said Cicotte.

The offers ranged from $100 and expenses for one man to the $300 and expenses offer for four.

There was no session of court Saturday.

THE SCANDINAVIAN CHURCH DEDICATION ELABORATE AFFAIR

St. Olaf's College Quartet Gives Splendid Program at Norwegian Church

WEST SALEM, Wis. — Sunday, July 10, was ended a day of rejoicing for Lutherans of Scandinavian descent in this vicinity. On that day the new church building was dedicated according to the rites and usages of the Lutheran church. A great concourse of people thronged the church edifice to witness the solemn rites. Visiting pastors taking part in the service were the following: H. G. Magnusson of La Crosse, who delivered the introductory address; O. J. Ryland of Coon Valley, M. P. Ruk of Elroy, A. H. Eklund of Casson, L. S. Barwick of Black River Falls. The Rt. Rev. J. Nordby, president of the Eastern district of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, delivered the dedicatory address. The pastor of the church officiated at the altar. Between four and five hundred people were present at the dedication services.

Miss Jennie Best of Washington, D. C., is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Jackson, and other relatives. Walter Dudley of Omaha, Neb., is spending a few weeks here with relatives. Misses Laura Amborn and Veraa

Led by the West Salem Military band our local fire department held its annual parade last Tuesday night. Truck hose carts and chemicals were all in line as they marched up Leonard street and around the block to Youlen street and back down town.

C. L. Lester bought the Dunlap restaurant last week and took possession at once.

Mrs. L. O. Kirsue entertained the Novelty club on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Stelow entertained the Needlecraft club on Saturday afternoon.

Thursday evening, July 7, the music lovers of West Salem were given a great treat when the St. Olaf's College quartet presented a most interesting program in the auditorium of the Norwegian Lutheran church. The program was composed of ten numbers, eight of which were double numbers by the quartet and two others by a violinist and vocal soloist.

If we'd lost the war we'd be paying an indemnity to Germany; we won it, so we're paying an indemnity to the railroad.
